

Chaim Sztajer

Mr Sztajer, a Częstochower Jew who survived Treblinka, presented a series of tragic memories regarding the liquidation of Częstochowa Jewry which, took place on the day of Simchas Torah in Treblinka.

These memories reflected the last path walked by the Częstochowa martyrs. This image was shocking to one's deepest core. A heroic picture [also] emerged from these tragic events of the past, in the resistance that some of the martyrs put up within Treblinka itself.
