

The painting El Moleh Rachamim^{*}, by the painter B. Linke, is dedicated to Jewish life in Poland. This great work of art consists of the chimney of a crematorium, over which is draped a figure in a prayer-shawl and phylacteries, clutching his hands to his head. No face is seen, but one sees the ruins and the debris all around the area of the huge crematorium-chimney. Through this momentous painting is seen the gruesome destruction that the evil Nazis brought upon the Jewish community in Poland. (on the next page)
