

FAJANS (FAYANS) Maurycy Moritz (1834-1884), doctor. He was born on 22nd February 1834 Sieradz, the son of Henryk and Luiza née Lande, brother of Ignacy (1847 - after 1927), a doctor who, until the end of the 1880s, practised in Włocławek.

He gained his medical diploma on 25th August 1858 at the University of Wrocław. In 1858, he settled in Częstochowa, where he ran his medical practice and alternated as a doctor at the Blessed Virgin Mary (NMP) Hospital. However, he neglected his work there and, in 1860, that hospital's Administration Council dismissed him from his post. He continued to run his private, medical practice.

He died on 3rd March 1894 in Częstochowa.

Szarejko, Słownik lekarzy polskich, vol. IV, p. 125 (his brother's biography is also here). - APCz, unit nr 58, death record No. 15/1884; unit No. 1 (Częstochowa municipal records), ref. 214 (population register 1858-1865).

Andrzej Kuśnierczyk