

GOTTLIEB (GOTLIB) Abram Lejb (1890-), locksmith, worker activist. He was born on 14th December 1890 in Częstochowa, the son of Szlomo Mendel and Perla née Berkowicz.

By trade, he was a locksmith and belonged to the Poalei Zion workers' party. In 1919, he was a co-founder and, later, a member of the board of the "Strzecha" Workers' Cooperative in Częstochowa (located at I Aleja 1). In 1927, on the list of the Jewish Workers' Electoral Committee, Poalei Zion (list No. 5), he stood for election to the Częstochowa City Council. He was unsuccessful.

His wife was Ruchla née Rozenzon (15th December 1885-), the daughter of Szaja and Liba née Wajman. They had two children – a daughter Cypora (16th January 1913 Częstochowa-) and a son Jakub (19th October 1914 Częstochowa-).

Mizgalska-Osowiecka, Żydzi w samorządzie, p. 64; Sobalski, Związki zawodowe, stowarzyszenia, p. 135. – APCz, unit No. 1, ref. 8825 (list of conscripts), No. 180. – Materials from the ODDC collection.

Juliusz Sętowski