

NASANOWICZ Maurycy Mosze Gedalia (1879-1919), senior felczer [paramedic]. He was born on 26th January 1879 in Pabianice, the son of Mordka and Fajgla née Gumpricht. From 1901, he lived in Częstochowa. He ran a practice at ul. Ogrodowa 13 and lived at al. NMP 20 (in a house owned by Mendel Lerner).

He attained the rank of senior felczer on 19th March 1912 (the certificate issued by the Warsaw Medical Authority). On 1st July 1913, he was registered in Częstochowa as a felczer, running his own practice, as well as a hairdressing salon. On 27th May 1919, he was summoned to the 1st Police Station in order to provide medical attention to a journeyman, who was injured during anti-Jewish riots. Despite police assistance, he [Nasanowicz] was fatally wounded and died at the Holy Virgin Mary Hospital (aleja NMP 17).

Pursuant to a resolution, passed on 7th June 1919, by the Częstochowa Town Hall (adopted as the result of a letter from → Councillor Romuald Jarmułowicz), a letter was sent to the Ministry of Internal Affairs in Warsaw, in which it was suggested that the state authorities should help Nasanowicz's five children. Councillor Szyja Nierenberg asked for help on behalf of the Councillors Faction of the Jewish Workers' Party Farejnigte. At the request of the Częstochowa Mayor → [Aleksander] Bantkie-Stężyński, on 22nd December 1919, at a meeting of the City Council, a majority vote approved a grant to help the orphaned children.

He was buried in the Częstochowa Jewish Cemetery, together with other victims of the 1919 riots.

In 1901, in Częstochowa, he married Frajdla née Najman. They had five children: Róża, Ignacy, Natan, Maria and Mieczysław.
