

A. G-B.

Mojsze Gotlib

He was the son of Reb Nechemie the shoichet, who was murdered in 1919 in Częstochowa. He was of a sensitive nature and excelled in his great knowledge. He was an active member of "Poalei Zion" right. He contributed to "Częstochower Zeitung" as a journalist and, in his stories, endeavoured to instruct the youth.

He married Reb Herszel Berliner's daughter and, shortly afterwards, contracted tuberculosis. Nevertheless, he did not relinquish his public work.

However, his illness overcame him and he died in 1929, still a young man.