Also, registered (#301), there is the book Sefer Milhamot ha-geta'ot (ben ha-homot, ba-maḥanot, ba-ye'arot) [The Book of the War of the Ghettoes (within the walls, in the camps, in the forests)], edited by Yitzhak Zuckerman and Moshe Basoḡ, published by Ha'Kibbutz Ha'Meuchad [The United Kibbutz] (2nd edition), of the Y. Katznelson publishing house at Kibbutz Lohamei HaGeta'ot, (5714/1954) 812 [?]. Page 12 tells of the uprising in Częstochowa [in] a report by the Jewish Agency's Relief Committee, in the bulletin for July and September 1946, regarding the situation of the Częstochowa Jews during that period; registered in Friedman's book as #214. #262: the book Dror-HaChalutz HaTzair, compiled and edited by David Gotesfrucht, Chaim Hadari, and Aron Reichman, HaKibbutz HaMeuchad (5707/1947), 511 pages, where it is spoken of Częstochowa (on p.413, 423-424), by Rina and Rywka Glanc, and others.

Listed as #1169 is Ha'Shoa Ve'Ha'Meri [The Holocaust and the Rebellion], an anthology of the destruction of the European Jewry during the years 5705-5708 [1945-48], compiled and edited by a special committee of the [Israeli] Ministry of Education, in collaboration with the Yitzhak Katznelson Lohamei Ha'Geta'ot House, for the legacy of the Holocaust and the Rebellion, published by the Governmental Printing House in Jerusalem, 5713/1953 (200 pages), which includes Aaron Brandes' article The End of the Fighters in the Częstochowa Ghetto (from [the book] The End of the Jews in Western Poland).
